

What's Developing

To keep printed materials about Eureka updated, the Eureka Community Development Company is working with Kaitlyn Martinez to bring a new design with current information to Eureka's Resource Booklet. This was originally printed about 9 years ago. Updates have been done by hand in each booklet. The information is there, but it doesn't look very nice.

As with the recently updated Eureka Brochure, the Resource Booklet will also be printed in small numbers so the content is current. As new information is needed, Kaitlyn will add it and then the new material will be printed.

This booklet is used by both current residents and those new to the community. It contains information on medical services, library hours, service and social organizations, county offices, churches, and a variety of other areas that are used by those living in the area.
