

A Peek Ahead at the ECDC Annual Meeting

Holly Hoffman will be the keynote speaker at the annual Eureka Community Development Company annual meeting. Although she is known for her high-place finish on the TV show “Survivor-Nicaragua”, that will not be the theme of her presentation at the annual meeting on March 23 at 7:00 PM at the Wolff Den.

Asked if she could give a hint about what the evening would entail, she responded that she would be centering the presentation on Legos. Then she went on to explain, “Why Legos? As you connect and build with Legos you discover the importance of patience, imagination, working together, determination and most importantly success. Starting from the bottom up, and seeing your tower grow, as you connect your desired model is a sense of self-satisfaction as well as a team satisfaction.”

“But why Legos? Legos are the example of how we all need to model, connect and involve to make the framework we need to succeed. One Lego alone stands alone but many Legos connected can build great things. It’s time to start building!!”

Everyone is cordially invited to this annual meeting to hear Holly Hoffman speak. Then the evening will continue as she facilitates a community action session. All are invited to bring along their ideas of ways that Eureka can be improved and people can become more involved as the community moves into the future.
